Project Description: The project consisted of the renovation of the first floor of the library to convert the space from a typical library configuration with stacks of books to a “Learning Commons” that promotes the use of technology, collaboration, and a casual atmosphere for the students to use. The project removed much of the interior walls, and created open space with state of the art technology to offer the students a place where they can sit with their laptop and study, work on projects, or just connect with their friends.
